Go Respite

Caregiving is a long journey. It is thus important to take periodic breaks so that you can continue journeying with your loved ones.

Respite care is the short-term care for your elderly loved ones when you take a break from caregiving or when your foreign domestic worker goes on home leave.

Planning ahead for respite care will help you to better care for yourself and your loved ones.

1 Where can I find Respite Care options?

1 At a senior care centre

Your loved one will join group activities during the day in a senior care centre. Centres operate on weekdays and selected centres on weekends.

2 At a nursing home

Your loved one will stay in and be cared for in a nursing home for a minimum of seven days per stay, and up to 30 days per year.

You do not need to pre-enrol if your loved one is already using senior day care centres. Please approach your regular day care provider should you need respite care.

If your loved one requires assistance in most of his/her activities of daily living, and/or have daily nursing care needs, you may wish to consider respite care at nursing homes.

You may need to make separate arrangements for transport to and from your selected respite care service provider.

2 Who is suitable?

If your loved one requires assistance with their activities of daily living, such as eating or bathing, he/she is eligible for respite care and should pre-enrol for the service.

If you would like to send your loved one to a dementia day care centre, your loved one must have a medical diagnosis of dementia.

3 Why pre-enrol?

Pre-enrolment helps you to plan and identify services ahead of time so that you can activate respite care for your loved one more quickly when it is needed.

4 How to pre-enrol?

STEP 1

Talk to your loved one and family on the type of respite care suited for your loved one, based on care needs, preferences on location and duration of care.

STEP 2

5 Activation

STEP 7

Pre-enrolment is valid for two years once completed. You will need to update your status thereafter.

Upon successful pre-enrolment, please contact your preferred service provider directly should you require respite care.

Pre-enrolment aims to shorten activation time. It does not guarantee placement with your preferred service provider. Placement is subject to vacancy, and provided that there is no significant change in medical condition from the point of pre-enrolment.

 Please note that household means test for Community Care services differs from the means test that is done for inpatient services in the hospitals.*
